

Medical Advisor Oncology Sweden/Nordic

Your new company

With an impressive history stretching over 130 years, Lilly is now the 10th largest pharmaceutical company in the world. Lilly has steadfastly remained independent, but not isolated. Across the globe, the company has developed productive alliances and partnerships that advance its capacity to develop innovative medicines at lower costs. Lilly is consistently ranked as one of the best companies in the world to work for, and generations of Lilly employees have sustained a culture that values excellence, integrity, and respect for people.

Your new role

With an exciting pipeline within oncology, Lilly is strengthening the Nordic team with the addition of a new member.

As a Medical Advisor at Lilly, you will provide expert medical support to all aspects of the business, to ultimately enhance the customers' experience in interacting with the company. This includes local marketed product support, medical support for regulatory affairs and interactions with government agencies, and leading in local scientific data dissemination. You will work with close collaboration with your colleagues locally, and also at a Nordic/European level. Therefore, it is important that you communicate very well in both Swedish and English.

What you'll need to succeed

We are looking for candidates with experience within oncology. In terms of background you need to meet at least one of the following requirements:

- Medical Affairs experience with relevant background such as oncologist, PhD or relevant life science degree
- Oncologist with a strong interest for the pharmaceutical industry
- PhD within oncology with a strong interest for the pharmaceutical industry

You demonstrate ability to balance scientific and business priorities, are a team player and a great communicator. To be successful in this role you need to be both independent and have the ability to work cross-functional.

The position requires travel, approximately 50%. The other half you will be based at the office in Stockholm/Solna.

If you have the listed experience and thrive in a busy and high tempo work environment this could be a perfect next step in your career.
